and password LinuxNoobuser: And have you made sure that it's listed in the "Software Sources" under the "Repositories" tab? yeah everything is selected i updated the packages LinuxNoobuser: Did you accept the certificate? it's my only machine on the network and it's a noob and i can't get a wireless working so i don't think i can just reinstall the OS LinuxNoobuser: What do you mean by "the only machine on the network"? just the one i'm on LinuxNoobuser: Try running "nmcli dev wifi list" and post the output to it shows the network in the nm-applet wlan1 but it never connects LinuxNoobuser: Try connecting to a network and post any errors in the output of "dmesg" to ok i'll try to do that in a sec thanks for the help the wlan1 entry in the device section shows no 802.11 security wait i was disconnected and then reconnected i don't think i have internet connectivity on this machine LinuxNoobuser: What if you open a terminal and try "sudo apt-get update && sudo apt-get dist-upgrade"? i have internet connectivity on my phone i'm on phone chat right now LinuxNoobuser: From another machine, to confirm you have connectivity, or to verify that you're not trying to connect to the wired network? to verify f3e1b3768c
